the Federal court. The petitioners are the Farmers' and Merchants' bank and others of Elkton, who claim that the firm has fraudulently disposed of its property to defraud its creditors.—Owensboro Inquirer.

In Bathing Suits.

Editor and Mayor Meacham of Hopkinsville is a live wire who is pushing a plan in the Council to dam Little river, which flows, when there is anything to flow, through the heart of the city. Others have damned Little river before, but it is to be hoped Mayor Meacham's plan may so improve and beautify the miniature river that even the pretty girls in bathing suits may cross the peaceful tide without soiling the soles of their sandaled feet.—Sturgis News-

Attacks School Principal.

A severe attack on school principal, Chas. B. Allen, of Sylvan, Ga., is thus told by him. "For more than three years," he writes, "I suffered indescribable torture from rheumatism, liver and stomach trouble and diseased kidneys. All remedies failed till I used Electric Bitters, but four bottles of this wonderful remedy cured me completely." Such results are common.
Thousands bless them for curing stomach trouble, female complaints, kidney disorders, biliousness, and for new health and vigor. Try them. Only 50c at all druggists.

Pellagra In Hopkins.

Mrs. John Journigan, wife of a prominent farmer living near Madisonville, died Wednesday with pella-gra. This is a second victim on record in Hopkins county known to have died of that disease.

A Fierce Night Alarm

is the hoarse, startling cough of a child, suddenly attacked by croup.
Often it aroused Lewis Chamblin, of Manchester, O. (R. R. No. 2) for their four children were greatly subject to croup. "Sometimes in severe attacks," he wrote "we were afraid they would die, but since we proved what a certain remedy Dr. King's New Discovery is, we have no fear.
We rely on it for croup and for coughs, colds or any throat or lung trouble." So do thousands of others.
So may you. Asthma, Hay Fever,
La Grippe, Whooping Cough, Hem-orrhages fly before it. 50c and $1.00.
Trial bottle free. Sold by all druggists.

Minister Weds.

Miss Bertha Threlkeld, aged 36, of Corydon, were married Wednesday.

Has Millions Of Friends.

How would you like to number your friends by millions as Bucklen's Arnica Salve does? Its astounding cures in the past forty years made them. It's the best Salve in the world for sores, ulcers, eczema, burns, boils, scalds, cuts, corns, sore eyes, sprains, swellings, bruises, cold sores. Has no equal for piles. 25c at all druggists.

Agreed to Quit.

The standard Oil Company, the storm center of anti-trust legislation Thursday passed out of existence, so far as its present forms and functions are concerned, in obedience to the Supreme Court decree. Standard Oil stock was traded in at $625 per share.

Kills A Murderer.

A merciless murderer is Appendicitis with many victims, but Dr.
King's New Life Pills kill it by prevention. They gently stimulate stomach, liver and bowels, preventing that clogging that invites appendicitis, curing Constipation, Headache, Biliousness, Chills, 25c at all druggists.

Eleven Survivors.

Eleven "forty niners" will build their last camp fire together in Where Courting is Dangerous.

Four young men have been shot at Vex (Valais) by an irate father to whose daughter they had come to pay court, says the London Express. They were refused admission to the house, and when they tried to force their way in the father took down his gun and fired. Two of them were slightly wounded and the other two seriously. The father was arrested.

The encounter and its almost tragic ending were due to ancient custom which prevails in the villages of the canton of Valais and in the Alpine hamlets of the German cantons. After a girl has reached the age of eighteen her parents are not surprised to receive the visit of several young men after the day's work to ask to see their daughter and pass a pleasant evening in the family circle. The visit is looked on as a compliment, and as the young men bring with them wines and food they are generally welcomed by the parents. The custom, which is known as Vellee, results in introductions and often in marriages.

REAL LIFE ROMANCE.

A romantic story of a Welshman's adventures comes to hand. Sixty years ago a young man named Randall left Wales and joined a band of young men who were to travel in the east. One day they left Damascus for Jerusalem, and on the journey they were stopped by a company of armed horsemen, who demanded that Randall should be handed over to them. The leader of the company said that no injury would be done to him. Randall consented, and he was handed over. He was taken to a Bedouin sheik's tent, where there was a feast awaiting him. This, he learned, was his wedding feast. He was to be married that day to the daughter of the sheikh, who had seen him and fallen in love with him. Randall, although guarded by night and day for years lest he should escape, grew prosperous, and was happy. The sheik died recently, and a few days ago Randall's son was made chief.

Who Was There That You Knew?

IN the shadowy ranks of those who marched to defeat or death or victory fifty years ago in the mighty conflict that convulsed this great nation, is there father or grandfather or uncle of yours? Would you like to see a photograph of him in that long ago day of his youth—a photograph that he never knew was taken? Perhaps we can show you one; and in any case, we can tell you a story, stranger than any detective fiction, of 3,500 priceless photographs that were lost and are found again.

3,500 Long Buried Photographs of the Civil War

THEY were taken by the greatest photographer in the United States of that day; they were bought by the United States Government for $30,000; they were buried in the War Department for 50 years—they are buried there still. But a duplicate set was kept by the photographer—who died poor and broken down; that duplicate set was knocked from pillar to post for nearly 50 years, until it was discovered by a New England collector, J. Pierpont Morgan, tried to secure the collection—Ex-President Morgan tried to Resignation F. Butler said it was worth $150,000—yet with the help of the Review of Reviews, the entire collection has been gathered into 10 great volumes and is placed within your reach at less than the value of one of the photographs.
It is the one accurate, impartial history of the Civil War—never heard before. Taken under protection of the Secret Service, these photographs bring to light thousands of little-known phases of the war; they penetrate to strange places and record strange things.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhoea and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

Lesson of Chivalry.

The lesson of chivalry, quite as important in the lad as in his father, in different degrees of course, may be taught in little attentions to mother and younger sister—helping about the house, making provisions which will save mother many steps during his absence and escorting sister to and from school.

Dirt and Disease.

Dirt is the "perfect culture" of all disease and of all that delights in disease. There the microbes of all plagues live and move and have their being undisturbed by the broom or the mop, unafraid of the smell of soap, and never awakened from their rest by the light from any lamp of knowledge that constitutes the science of modern times.

The Last Ride

By Izola Forrester

(Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press.)

"I don't want to go."
"But you should want to. By every law of friendship and hospitality, you should want to go, and you must." Sewall leaned his elbows on the bar gate, and met the defiant glances from the other side, amusedly. "Aren't we neighbors?"

"Not through my fault."
"Don't you like me for a neighbor, Miss Nan? Here I've come out west, and been a steady dweller at the ranch here, learning all a tenderfoot could reasonably be expected to in six months, and trying to live up to your expectations of me—"

"I never had any."
"Well, your general opinion, then. Here I've come into property, as you say out here, through no fault of my own. Uncle Dave Sewall saw fit to hand over his place to me when he passed along the heavenly trail, because I bore his name. Was that my fault? And I never kicked. I dropped everything east, and came out here like a lamb led to be sacrificed and tried my level best to turn rancher. Didn't I?"

Nan nodded her head reluctantly, but did not speak.

"And I've built a brand new bungalow over yonder under the spruces. You said you knew she'd like the could see her profile, half averted from him, and the sweep of heavy brown hair beneath her boyish hat.

Six months he had lived there at the Mariposa ranch, learning the business from her four brothers, one of whom had been his chum at Yale. And if ever there had been a scornful westerner it was Nan Rathbourn, from the first day she had heard of this college youngster who had inherited the big Sewall outfit. She had expected him to be a failure, to be a shirker. And she had treated him accordingly ever since. He had taken hold of the work that lay before him with double energy, and had made a success out of it. Finally, he had built this new house up on the hills, where the spruces clung to ledge and upland crag, and the valley lay before it like the promised land. It was to be his home, he told her, and he had made it a home for two, for there was to be a bride there some day.

And that was all he would say. Day after day she had seen him ride away, and knew it was to superintend the building of Honeymoon lodge, as he had called it. Then there came a day when she knew suddenly that she was jealous, fiercely, heart-brokenly jealous of this other girl who was to come from the east, and be Dave Sewall's wife.

It was not a happy awakening. She fought against it with all the strength of her nature, and the worst of it was she did not have the guile to conceal it, as an older, and more experienced girl would have done. All at once she refused to ride with him, to talk to him, to be with him at all.

And today, the very last day of his stay, he had asked her to ride up and see his Honeymoon lodge.

As they dismounted and hobbled the ponies, she hesitated. There was the bungalow before her, broad, low, rich in its native timber, with the broad veranda sweeping three sides, and its rock chimneys rising above. Above it were the spruces, fragrant and murmurous. Below lay the valley and beyond, for miles and miles, were the encircling mountains, drifting down into the sloping foothills.

"Like it, Miss Nan?" asked Sewall, resting one foot on the step.

"Yes," said Nan, catching her breath; "yes, I like it. It's beautiful, just beautiful."

"Nice enough for any girl?"

"Yes."

"Think she'll be lonesome way up here?"

"Girls aren't lonesome—not when they've got the right one for always." She flashed a quick look of resentment at him. How stupid he was to think a girl who loved a man would be lonesome. She felt sure that Eden was a crowded community even with the angels walking around.

"Then—" he paused just a moment, looking up at her keenly—"when do you think I can send for the missionary bishop?"

"As soon as you know she is coming."

"Could you be ready by Sunday, Nan?"

So gently it came that she did not catch the intent for an instant, not until his hands closed over hers, and she saw the look in his eyes.

"Don't answer too quickly, dear. I know I've blundered as usual, and surprised you, but I didn't know what to say. There isn't anything except that I love you with all my heart and soul, and built Honeymoon lodge for you, hoping you'd come to it—and to me—when it was ready. Don't laugh at me, Nan—"

"Laugh at you?" She looked up at him, and stopped short. "You don't know how I've hated that other girl, Dave, how I've hated her because she'd have all this—and you."

It was very still under the spruces for a minute as he held her in his arms; then she laughed, and drew back.

"Haven't I better go in and show you where to hang the pancake turner?" she asked.

WITTY ANSWER.

Albert W. Ransom, a New York lawyer, says that the best legal joke he ever heard was of a lawyer who was shown the sight of a certain town by the county judge. Here is the story: After the judge had, with considerable pride, shown to the lawyer the courthouse, the city hall and other public buildings of his town, the lawyer inquired: "But where do you feed your poor?" The dignified judge looked perplexed for a few seconds and then, with a sunny smile, remarked: "Oh, we feed our poor on the provisions of the revised statutes."

Representative Charles D. Carter of Oklahoma created a sensation in the heart of the smart shopping center of Washington by assaulting four clerks, one of whom he alleged insulted his 18 year old daughter, Miss Italy Carter, who was with her father on a shopping expedition.

Sneezed Himself to Death.

Sept. 1.—Stephen Froesiel died in a hospital at Oklahoma City as a result of hemorrhages started by sneezing. He began to sneeze Oct. 24 and at the same time his nose began to bleed. Physicians could not check the bleeding and death resulted from loss of blood.

SUDDEN DEATH

Of Miss Margaret Bassett, Daughter of Col. and Mrs. E. B. Bassett.

Miss Margaret Bassett, the four-year-old daughter of Col. E. B. Bassett, died very suddenly yesterday at noon.

Last Spring she fell while roller skating on the street and injured one of her knees so badly that the limb had to be amputated. She had apparently recovered, but had never been strong since. She had been able to be on the streets with crutches. Her death was entirely unexpected. She had recently been ill but appeared to be much better. Just as dinner was announced, she sat up and putting her hand to her breast complained of a pain and expired almost instantly.

She was a bright, pretty and most lovable child. The funeral arrangements had not been announced yesterday.

ONE OF PARTY

Writes Interestingly of Recent Trip To The Seashore.

The Hopkinsville party of twenty-seven left Hopkinsville Friday at 7:05 a. m. for Old Point Comfort, Va. We arrived in Louisville at 1:00 p. m., went immediately to the C. & O. depot, where we took the sleeper at 6 p. m., not making any change then until we reached Old Point. While in Louisville we went to see friends, spending a very enjoyable afternoon. Some of us rode over the city in an automobile going into our Orphans' Home.

We left Louisville at 6 p. m., traveling some distance along the banks of the Ohio River. We passed Lakeland Asylum, a beautiful place between Louisville and Frankfort. We saw very little of our state capital as it was about eight o'clock when we passed through. We reached Lexington in the beautiful blue grass region about 9 p. m. One of the ladies had troubles of her own, first tripping a drummer and frightening him so he left the car immediately and secured a berth in another car and sending a porter in our car for his baggage. We saw nothing more of him until the next morning when he came in looking for his suit case. He seemed to be in great distress, said he had lost his suitcase and ticket. He later found them and went on his way rejoicing.

We retired about 10 o'clock going to sleep in Kentucky and awoke in West Virginia, in the beautiful Alleghenies. The time changed some time during the night, so we ran our watches up one hour the next morning. We traveled along New River for quite a distance, reached Pence Springs, W. Va., a quiet, homelike resort situated in the Greenbrier Valley, at an elevation of 1,725 feet, about 7:30 a. m.

We passed from West Virginia into Old Virginia, through the Big Bend tunnel, which is about one and a quarter miles in length. I think the most beautiful scenery was in the Shenandoah and Piedmont Valleys seen from the top of the Blue Ridge mountains which are about 5,000 ft. above sea level. Judge Bush after having seen 17,000 mountains, was anxious to see the ocean he said. We reached Old Point about 6:00 p. m., Saturday, being a little fatigued but in good spirits. We went immediately to the Sherwood Inn, where we secured rooms for the night. After supper we walked down to the wharf to see the boats. Returning to the hotel we wrote a few post cards and then retired early in order to be ready to start out early the next morning. We went to Ocean View where a number of the party spent an hour or two in the water, learning to swim in the ocean.

Leaving Old Point on a boat we traveled about five miles, landing on a peninsula which is about eight miles long. Here we took a car for Ocean View. We reached Old Point Sunday afternoon just in time to get supper and catch the boat for Washington, D. C. We got on the Southland about 7 p. m., sailing up the Chesapeake Bay into the Potomac River, reaching Washington about 7 a. m. Monday. After getting breakfast we started out sightseeing. We took a touring car which carried us around the city, stopping at the most important places. We visited the White House, the Capitol, Smithsonian Institute, the National Museum and the Congressional Library. We went to Mt. Vernon on a car. This is a beautiful place situated upon a hill overlooking the Potomac. When we left Washington all agreed they had seen more than they had ever before seen in the same length of time.

We reached Old Point Tuesday morning. After getting breakfast we left for Norfolk. There our party separated, part going from Norfolk to Virginia Beach, back to Old Point that afternoon and to Richmond Tuesday night. Left Richmond Wednesday afternoon for Kentucky.

P. S. Sunday morning we went over Fort Monroe going into the room Davis was in during his imprisonment there.

MUSIC OF EERIE MADNESS

Hearer Was Enthusiastic But Violinist Was Only Putting on a New E String.

Walter Damrosch, at a dinner in Chicago, praised the music of Debussy.

"I see with gratification," he said, "that Debussy has had a great success in his score for the Martyrdom of Saint Sebastian, the mystery play that he and Gabriele d'Annunzio have just produced together in Paris."

"I am glad that Debussy's music is succeeding. It is such beautiful, simple music, music a child can understand. It isn't like most of our modern music, which puzzles people to death."

Mr. Damrosch smiled.

"A lady at a musical at Long Branch," he said, "approached a celebrated violinist and exclaimed enthusiastically:

"I so admired that last piece you played! It had a kind of wild, free beauty—an eerie madness that thrilled me to the heart. Was it, may I ask, your own composition?"

"Madam," the other answered coldly, "I was putting a new E string on my violin."—Washington Star.

AMERICA HAS OWN LANGUAGE

Of Course It Is Descended From the English, and Like It Has Many Dialects.

A reader wonders whether our language—English, of course, in the beginning, and perhaps so it should be unto the end—could be called American, as we speak of the German language, the Italian, the French, the Spanish, the Russian and so on.

Surely. Ask any Britisher, as he hears us do it, whether we speak his tongue or "American."

Italian is descended from the Latin. French is descended from the Gaelic, the Latin, the Scandinavian, the German and half a dozen other ancestors of widely different nationalities. American is descended, or is descending, from the English.

Truly there is the American language, with a provincial dialect for nearly every state in the Union. But few of the European countries can make faces at us on that score. A Maine man can converse fluently with a South Carolinian, but a Londoner who wishes to swap talk with a Yorkshire farmer has to have an interpreter to do it. And you can walk from London to York in almost an afternoon.

WHERE THACKERAY STUDIED

The lover of Thackeray who makes a pilgrimage to the temple must not confine his attention to Brick court, for that was only one of the novelist's temple homes. In 1831, when Thackeray became a member of the temple, he commenced his studies at 1 Hare court by reading with William Taprell, and in 1848, when he was finally called to the bar, he took chambers in Crown Office row, sharing them, it is said, with Tom Taylor of Punch. His Crown Office row chambers have disappeared, but Hare court, in which a disastrous fire was once extinguished with beer because the Thames water was frozen, still stands.—London Chronicle.

RELIGIOUS DENOMINATIONS.

Of the English-speaking religious communities of the world there are 29,200,000 Episcopalians, 18,650,000 Methodists of all descriptions, 15,500,000 Roman Catholics, 12,250,000 Presbyterians of all descriptions, 9,230,000 Baptists of all descriptions, 6,150,000 Congregationalists of all descriptions, 5,250,000 Free Thinkers, 2,800,000 Lutherans, 2,600,000 Unitarians, 5,500,000 belonging to minor sects and 17,000,000 or no particular religion.

LAW A POOR PROFESSION.

"Johnson said: 'You must not indulge too sanguine hopes, should you be called to our bar. I was told, by a very sensible lawyer, that there are a great many chances against any man's success in the profession of the law; the candidates are so numerous those who get large practice so few . . . that the great risk was, that a man might pass half a lifetime in the courts and never have an opportunity of showing his abilities.'"—From Boswell's Life of Johnson.

GOOD NEWS.

Many Hopkinsville Readers Have Heard It and Profited Thereby.

"Good news travels fast," and the thousands of bad back sufferers in Hopkinsville are glad to learn that prompt relief is within their reach. Many lame, weak and aching backs are bad no more, thanks to Doan's Kidney Pills. Thousands upon thousands of people are telling the good news of their experience with the Old Quaker Remedy. Here is an example worth reading:

W. B. Pool, Princeton, Ky., says: "My kidneys were disordered for fifteen years. I had a dull pain in the small of my back and occasionally when I stopped or lifted, sharp twinges darted through my loins. I was troubled by nervous spells, tired easily and was subject to headaches and a blurring of my sight. The kidney secretions contained sediment and were so frequent in passage that I was obliged to arise three or four times during the night. I finally procured Doan's Kidney Pills and am pleased to say that they gave me prompt relief."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

BULLET IN

Wm. Ewing as a Result of Warlike Festival.

At a colored gathering at Rich Saturday night a shooting affray resulted in the shooting of Wm. Ewing by Ernest Thacker. It is not known what caused the difficulty. Ewing was shot through the body and badly wounded, but the physician who attended him, Dr. B. A. Caudle, thinks there is a chance for his recovery. He lives at Clint Cayce's. Thacker is a farm hand for E. D. Jones. He was arrested yesterday by Sheriff Johnson.

LATEST FROM URA

Little Arvin Boy Rescued Last Summer Is Doing Well.

Hopkinsville, Sept. 4, 1911

Editor Kentuckian:—

From 'Kentucky's Little Citizens,' the organ of the Society, I clip and hand you the following statement which I think will interest some of your readers:

"We know it will be good news to the hundreds who have inquired about Ura to learn that he is developing rapidly into a hearty, intelligent youngster, just as near like the normal boy of his age as can be. By careful, painstaking work on the part of physicians and nurses, he has been literally brought back to life. Today he romps and plays with the other children and smiles in childish glee. There were many weeks after Ura came to the Society that he did not smile, and his nurses wondered if he ever would."

Yours very truly,
W. D. HUMPHREY.

Hot Wave Prevails.

The county has been in the grasp of a hot wave during the past week, the mercury going in the nineties several times. On Sunday 96 degrees was registered by the government thermometer.

Mrs. John Drew Better.

McLeansboro, Ill.—"About five years ago," says Mrs. John L. Drew, of this place, "I was afflicted with pains and irregularity every month. I suffered continually, was weak and dependent, and unable to do my housework. I took Cardui, and in one month, I felt like a new woman and worked hard all summer. I am now in perfect health, and recommend Cardui to all suffering women." Every day, during the past 50 years, Cardui has been steadily forging ahead as a result of its proven value in female troubles. It relieves headache, backache, womanly misery and puts fresh strength into weary bodies. Try it.

R. W. DOWNER

One of The County's Best Citizens Passes Away.

Mr. Robt. W. Downer, of Pembroke, died at his home Sunday evening, after a long illness, aged 68 years. Mr. Downer was one of the most prominent citizens of the county and one of the wealthiest men of Pembroke. In all things he was a representative of the county's best citizenship, a leader in the Pembroke Baptist church, and a useful, upright citizen. He leaves a widow, who was formerly Miss Lyda Garnett, also two brothers and one sister. The funeral services were held at the cemetery yesterday afternoon by Rev. W. E. Mitchell, and the body was laid to rest in the Pembroke Cemetery.

Hurt by War Relics.

While in Chattanooga a few weeks ago a local man noticed an old colored man who carried his right arm in a sling.
"What is the matter, uncle?" he asked. "Is your arm broken?"
"No, sah," grinned the old man. "It's jest gun sore."
"Been hunting?"
"No, sah. Ah been shootin' trees."
"Oh, I see; target practice."
"No sah."
"Then you'll have to elucidate."
"Well, sah, it's like dis," the old man explained. "We goes out into de woods an' shoots bullets into de trees. After a while de trees grows around de bullets a little, then we cuts dem down to sell to people fum de norf as relics ob de battle ob Lookout mountain."

LOOK OUT FOR THE CARS

DO YOU know of anyone who is old enough to read, who has not seen that sign at a railroad crossing?

If everyone has seen it at some time or other, then why doesn't the railroad let the sign rot away? Why does the railroad company continue to keep those signs at every crossing?

Maybe you think, Mr. Merchant, "Most everybody knows my store, I don't have to advertise."

Your store and your goods need more advertising than the railroads need to warn people to "Look Out for the Cars."

Nothing is ever completed in the advertising world.

The Department Stores are a very good example—they are continually advertising—and they are continually doing a good business.

If it pays to run a few ads round about Christmas time, it certainly will pay you to run advertisements about all the time.

It's just business, that's all, to

DEEP MYSTERY OF THE PRESS

Correspondents Always Declared They Knew Nothing, But the Papers Were Full of News.

Until recently there was an aged elevator man who operated one of the lifts in the house wing of the capitol. Most of his passengers were either representatives or newspaper correspondents. The old man got to know all of the correspondents very well and always had a cheerful greeting for them. It was often noticed, too, that he seemed to be greatly interested in their conversation.

One afternoon, as three of them stepped out of the elevator, Sereno Payne of New York stepped in. As the car went down the old elevator man turned and said:

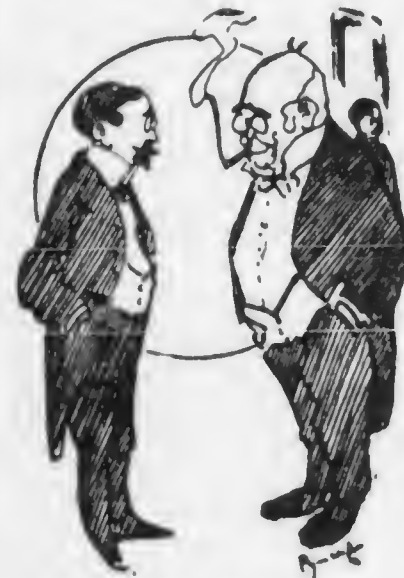

"Mr. Payne, I can't understand about those newspaper men. They puzzle me."

"What's the trouble with them?" asked Mr. Payne.

"Well, Mr. Payne, every day they ride in this car one feller will turn to another and say, 'What do you know today?' And the other fellow will answer, 'Not a thing. What do you know?' Then the first feller will answer, 'Nothing.' And yet, Mr. Payne, the papers are just full of news every day. It beats me where they get it."

"It beats me, too," said Mr. Payne.—Brooklyn Eagle.

BIG ENOUGH TO WORK.

Artists do not all look alike, any more than grocers or typesetters do. Nevertheless, many persons are surprised at an artist who is not small, anemic, delicate of feature and decorated with a flowing necktie. Such a person, says a writer in the Boston Traveler, lately visited the studio of a certain artist in that city.

The man in question wears a big red beard, and stands six feet and some inches high. His shoulders are broad and his muscles hard from continued exercise. A woman entered his studio and asked for the artist.

"That's him, standing over there," the attendant said.

The woman looked over to where the artist stood, towering like an ancient viking, and gasped. "Why," she whispered, in surprise, "he's big enough to work, isn't he?"

REALLY LIVING.

"The cure for a narrow and confined understanding is to see many things and many men; to taste of the sweetness of truth in science and to cultivate a love of it; to have words liberality, candor, knowledge often in your mouth, and of length they will get into your heart; to ask the reason of things and find the meaning of words; to hear patiently anyone who confirms what you thought before, or who refutes it; to propose to yourself in life the same object as the law proposes in the examination of evidence—to get at the truth, and nothing but the truth."—Sydney Smith.

CORK VARNISH FOR SHIPS.

In order to protect the interior of ships from the humidity caused by condensation upon the metallic walls during sudden changes of temperature, the Italian marine has experimented with a kind of hygroscopic varnish or coating the essential compound of which is ground cork, which is consolidated by pressure with copal and litharge and applied to the walls. It has been found that the cork varnish absorbs the watery vapor of the atmosphere to the extent of eight or nine grammes for every square meter of surface exposed.—Scientific American.

What He Was Thinking About.

A grandfather of a South Philadelphia home walked into the sitting room and found his grandson in deep thought.

"John," he said, "I will give you a nickel if you will tell me what you are thinking about."

No effect was produced on the grandson at all.

"I say, John, I will give you a quarter if you will tell me," said the grandfather.

With that remark the grandson jumped up and demanded the money, which was readily turned over to him. "I was thinking, grandpa," he said, "how I could earn some money without working for it."

GREENE WAS A LUCKY MAN

His Lost Five Dollar Bill Found in Two Places, and His Conscience Elastic.

"If anybody but Greene had told me this I wouldn't have believed it, and I wouldn't have believed him if it had happened to anybody but Greene," said the man. "The other day Greene lost five dollars. When he got home he began to figure out where he might have lost it. There was a chance every time he took out his pocketbook. He had had his pocketbook in his hand, he remembered, when he left the drug store at One Hundred and Fourth street, and again when he left the florist's at One Hundred and First street.

"In order to expedite the search Greene telephoned the news of his loss to the druggist. The druggist was very accommodating. He promised to put the whole drug store force on the job and to telephone back the result as soon as the premises had been thoroughly searched.

"While waiting for a message from the druggist Greene telephoned to the florist, and received similar assurances of co-operation. In about five minutes the druggist called up. The five dollars had been found lying under the edge of a dry goods box on the pavement and would be handed over to Greene.

"Greene jumped into his coat and grabbed his hat, but before he got to the door the florist telephoned that the five dollars had been found in the ash can just outside his door, and would be held against all comers until Greene called for it. Greene's conscience is of the India rubber variety, so he had no compunctions about collecting the five dollars from both druggist and florist. I'll bet that wouldn't happen to anybody else on earth but Greene."

GOOD REMEDY FOR HICCOUGH

Spasmodic Contractions of Diaphragm. Stopped Instantly by Small Quantity of Powdered Sugar.

Hiccough is a sudden and spasmodic contraction of the diaphragm, determining a brusque shock to the walls of the abdominal and thoracic cavity, and is accompanied by a rough and inarticulate sound caused by the sudden closure and sonorous vibration of the vocal cords.

Among the numerous remedies employed against the disagreeable symptoms there is one recommended by Dr. Petit of Beaumont, France, which, although not really new, is a little known. It has the merit of being extremely simple and is said to be remarkably efficacious.

It consists simply in swallowing as quickly as possible a tablespoonful of powdered sugar without any admixture with water. The hiccough will be immediately stopped. If it comes on again, the same remedy again will be found successful.

What is the action of the powdered sugar? Probably it sets up a kind of reflex action. The sugar certainly plays no specific role in this case, and it is probable that any inert powder would have the same effect.

Dr. Petit has made use of this remedy for some years, and it has rarely failed. Accordingly he recommends recourse to it even when the case of hiccoughs may have resisted all the standard remedies.

The Royal Oak.

The actual tree into which Charles vanished was hacked to pieces within a few years by relic hunters, and the present royal oak at Boscombe is merely a descendant. A silver made from the original royal oak is still possessed by Oxford university, and countless chairs, tables, altars, picture frames and snuff boxes claim to be made out of the same sacred material. Charles II. intended to commemorate his escape at Boscombe by establishing a new order of "Knights of the Royal Oak," but thought best "not to keep awake animosities." The name of the "Royal Oak" has been preserved in the navy since 1664. The first ship to bear this historic name met with an ignominious fate, being burned by the Dutch when they came up the Medway in 1667. Oak Apple day, now little observed except by school boys, was formerly a great anniversary and for long after the Restoration a Royal Oak invariably figured in all civic pageants.—Westminster Gazette.

Something Like a Nerve.

The talk in the club had been of cool deeds on the battlefield, when the member who rarely spoke broke in on our conversation.

"The coolest bit of nerve I ever saw," he drawled, "was when I was motoring in the Midlands with the Honorable Jimmy. It had been raining, and as we turned the corner of the village street we skidded badly, then shot forward. Crashing into the little postoffice, we smashed the front of the shop clean through and knocked down the village postman. It was then that the Honorable Jimmy showed what he was made of. He jumped out of the car, and advancing to the terrified girl behind the counter, said in his blandest voice: "Two ha'penny stamps, please, miss."—London Tit-Bits.

To Settle Boundary Dispute.

The century-old dispute over the boundary between Persia and Turkey in Asia from Mt. Ararat south to the Persian gulf seems to be at last in a fair way to be settled. At a conference recently held in Constantinople both governments agreed to submit the points in contest to The Hague tribunal and to abide by its decision.

FROM COTTAGE TO PALACE

German Lad Restored by Court Decree to His Proper Station as a Count.

Count Josef Kwilecki, aged fourteen, who began life in a palace in Berlin and continued it in a tumble-down cottage, has been restored to the palace by the German imperial appeals court, which decided that he is the son of the late Countess Kwilecki and not the child of a charwoman employed at a small railway station.

This has been brought to an end a cause celebre which has occupied the attention of one court after another for ten long years.

The Countess Isabella was accused of having passed off as her own the child of an Austrian Polish woman named Cecilia Meyer, in order to keep in her husband's family an entailed estate worth $10,000 a year.

At the instance of another branch of the family, who wanted to inherit the estate, the charwoman, Meyer, claimed the child.

The first trial resulted in favor of the countess; in the second, the charwoman won and now the court of appeal has reversed that judgment.

This means that whether the boy be the son of the countess or of the charwoman, he must legally be recognized as the son of the count, in view of the entry in the birth register.

BREEDS NEW KINDS OF FLIES

Columbia Professor Gets Curious Results in Mutations of Form and Color.

Some curious results have been obtained by Prof. T. H. Morgan of Columbia university in the production of mutations of form and color by culture and breeding of the "fruit fly," Drosophila ampelophila. By subjecting flies, pupae, larvae and eggs to the influence of radium rays, Professor Morgan produced one fly which had "beaded" wings. By subsequent breeding other flies with similar wings were produced, and after many generations a stock has been developed that frequently gives, in reproduction, a hundred per cent. of beaded wings. Other changes produced and handed down from generation to generation include the shortening of the normally long wings of these flies until in some cases they have become relatively very short and truncated. From some of the truncated-wing stock flies have been developed which have only tiny scales instead of wings. Changes have also been developed in the color and marking of the wings and the color of the eyes. Many may wonder whether it would be possible to experiment with the house fly and breed both wings and legs out of existence.—Youth's Companion.

AN INGENUOUS REPLY.

A hostess, whose friends had arrived unexpectedly, got up an impromptu dinner party, and was compelled to send to the nearest bakery for some tarts. All went on well until the hostess, unluckily wishing to show off by pretending not to know what was at her own table, pointed to the dish with an air of great dignity, and inquired, "John, what are these tarts?" Whereat John, in the innocence of his heart, looking at the tarts in a commercial rather than a culinary point of view, briskly replied, "Five cents apiece, ma'am."

THE GIRL'S HANDICAP.

In her pretty new frock sister Mabel felt quite proud as she sat on the front step and watched some boys playing on the sidewalk.

After a time one little boy came up to talk to her and to admire, in his rough little way, her bright, shiny shoes and pink sash.

"See my nice square-cut waist," exclaimed the girlie, "and my nice coral beads! Don't you wish you wuz a girl?"

"No, sir-ee," replied the boy; "I wouldn't want to be any girl at all, because lookie how much more neck you haf to wash."

WAS MORE FOR SPINSTERS

Amusing Experience of a Maiden Lady Who Found She Had Been Churched in Rome.

A maiden lady, being in Rome, went into one of the churches, and seeing other ladies attending a service in one of the chapels went and knelt with them. The service over, a woman came round to make a collection. The lady gave a small coin, but it did not appear to be sufficient. The woman made some remark in Italian, at the same time holding up to fingers. Failing to make the lady understand, she fetched a priest who could speak English.

"Pardon," he said, "the Signora is perhaps not aware that the fee is two francs."

"The fee?" she exclaimed.

"Yes, signora. The signora has been churched and the fee is two francs."

"Churched, my good man," exclaimed the visitor in horror, "I'm not married!"

The good priest modestly cast down his eyes. "In that case, signora, the fee is three francs."

ENVY

The Goat—Umph! You needn't be so cheery just because turkey is 30 cents a pound.

AS TO "ROOK."

The rook appears to have become the bird whose name stands for swindlers in a distinctly unfair way, the London Chronicle says. At first "rook" meant a dupe, then the verb "to rook" came to mean to cheat, and out of this was evolved "rook," a cheater—a complete topay-turry process. It is curious that the same thing has not happened to "gull." Here also the verb came from the substantive meaning a dupe, and, as the gull strikes one as rather a knowing bird, one might have expected the same evolution as in the case of the rook. It should be observed, however, that "gull," a dupe did not refer specially to the seagull, the word having formerly meant a young bird of any kind. In Elizabethan English it signified a callow youngster who wished to be thought smart.

HIS SHREWD SCHEME.

He was an old man who had married for the second time and he had grown children by the first wife. Also, he had a big bunch of property. And his idea was to leave every cent he had to his second wife. "It won't do at all," I advised him. "Your children are going to make an awful fight to break such a will, and they are likely to be successful." "That's just what I want to do," answered my foxy client. "I want my children to have a full share of my money. That's why I bequeath everything to my wife. I know that wife of mine. And it's going to be a lot easier for my children to break my will than it is for me to break hers."

HAS ANCIENT MUSKET.

Perhaps the oldest gun in the United States is that owned by Alex. King of Richmond, Va. Ninety-seven years ago this month King's grandfather purchased a flintlock musket, which at that time was the very latest model in small firearms. Today the piece is in working order and can be fired as accurately as it could when purchased. The gun was made in 1814, the same year it was purchased by the elder king.
